At No. 59 CALLE FLORIDA.

The undersigned would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Buenos Aires and the Argentine Republic, that having completed his arrangements, he has opened the above named establishment to the public on the 23rd May, with the immense supply of the celebrated KOSMON, set, and a stock of KEROSENE LAMPS, imported from Europe and North America expressly this market, which for in every respect, is assur ed in the Globe, all of which will be offered for sale at the most reasonable prices. He would moreover invite the attention of the public to the many advantages of the above fashionable illuminant over the light giving agents. Kosmon Oil being a pure extract from bituminous coal, contains all the illuminating properties of coal gas, and produces a clear, white light, surpassing Gas light itself in brilliance and of such remarkable softness and purity as to render it infinitely the best light in the world for the eye, while it costs less than one half as much as Gas and a fourth more economical than the most inferior light in use. The Oil is very cheap, inodorous, and perfectly safe and the lamps are so simple that they can not be got out of order. The unprecedented superiority of KOSMON OIL over all other artificial illuminants, having been well established throughout Europe and North America (where it has met an adoption unparalled in the history of improvements), it is now confidently offered to the public as the most perfect and in every respect most desirable illuminant yet introduced. All are invited to call and see the light and judge for themselves; the evening being the best time, to see the establishment.

NIL FALSI AUDEAM, NIL VERI NON AUDEAM DICERE". (Cicero.)

TUESDAY July 1st, 1862

FALL OF NEW ORLEANS AND YORKTOWN FRENCH VICTORY IN MEXICO

DEFIANCE BETWEEN THE ALLIES.

Garibaldi at war with Victor Emmanuel.

The American war is drawing to a close. On the 25th April, the Federal squadron having bombarded, during six days, the forts near New Orleans a banner of truce demanded the conditions of capitulation, to which Commander Porter replied "unconditionally"! General Butler accordingly landed 8,000 men, on the 27th, and the forts surrendered. At the same time Commodore Farragut forced a passage up the Mississippi, and arrived abreast of the city. The Confederate general, Lowell, seeing resistance impossible, evacuated the city with all his troops, setting fire, however, to 8 or 10 millions dollars' worth of cotton. The admiral also pulled down the southern flag. The city-mayor, resembling the town-council, declared that New Orleans would not surrender, but that, wanting means of defence, the Federals might take possession. The Northern troops then entered, while the whole line of the Mississippi as far as Baton Rouge also fell into their hands. Postal communication is re-established with Louisiana, the river is thrown open to commerce, the farmers of Tennessee no longer refuse their cotton, and everything augurs a speedy pacification.

The fall of Yorktown has given great prestige to McClellan's operations. A vigorous defence was anticipated, and great preparations were made for the attack. On May 1st, the Confederate President, Jeff. Davis, called a council of war with Gens. Lee and Johnston, deciding on the evacuation of the place as untenable. On the 3rd, McClellan took possession, finding 60 pieces of heavy artillery. The Confederates had left some mortar machines in the abandoned works, and magazines; one exploded, killing and wounding thirty men. General MacClellan ordered the prisoners to remove them at the peril. The Confederates retired towards Williamsburg, and the sergeant Lowe discovered their rearguard at a distance of 4 miles. Mc Clellan immediately ordered Hooker and a most bloody conflict ensued on the possession of two redoubts. Gen. Hancock repulsed the enemy at point of the bayonet: the fight became general and the rebels had to retire, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. On the 6th May the Northern occupied Williamsburg; and Gen. Franklin seized West-point (20 miles from Yorktown) cutting off the retreat of the the Confederates.

It is not known whether Beauregard has evacuated Corinth, the Confederate force is very large, but the spirits of the men are depicted by these successive reverses, and they are surrounded by four armies under McClellan, Halleck, Mitchel and Foote.

The North is developing the scheme for negro emancipation, on the south-east Forces, S. Carolina, Georgia &c. The French Minister has returned to Washington with preliminaries for an armistice and peaceful arrangement. British Government to endeavour to effect a compromise.

From Mexico we have accounts of a pitched battle between the French troops and Juarez' brigands. The first charge sent the Mexican cavalry fleeing in all directions and the conquerors entered Orizaba in triumph proclaiming to the inhabitants that they would respect their properties, although fairly entitled to plunder. General Almonte called his countrymen to side with the French and 6,000 Mexicans had already flocked to his standard. Civil war raged through the interior; the French were resolved to carry everything before them, and reap all the glory, since England and Spain have both retired. The Parliament has confirmed the acts of their representative; General Prim convened the troops to Cuba, some port on board British men o war, and the Cortes have sanctioned his retirement. The French Chambers and press declaim against the allies as deserters, and M. Barrot was sent to the Court of San Ildefonso to insist on the Spanish co operation. The Spanish journals reply that Spain will listen to no dictation.

The trip of V. Emmanuel to Naples gave occasion for Garibaldi to set on foot a new crusade which threatened the duchies of the "gentleman-like" and was probably intended to attack Venice or Rome. The existence of revolt were stated just in time, and Garibaldi claims all responsibility; Colonel Cahbene and some al others were arrested at Brescia and Bergamo. The hero of Sicily declares that the Government is unworthy of national confidence, and he is laying deep plans of armed assistance.

The Pope held a consistory of 25 cardinals and 120 bishops, relative to the Japanese martyrs. An arrangement is said to be concluded between Turin and the Tuileries, giving a number of representatives to the Papal Chamber in the Italian Parliament, which is not to sit in Rome. Gen Goyon has received from his Holiness the grand cross of the order of Christ, an honour reserved to crowned heads. The Viceroy of Egypt proceeded from Rome to Paris, where he was received with every mark of distinction. Twenty Spanish cardinals and prelates arrived at Civita Vecchia for Barcelona. Two thirds of the French internally have also gone to the Eternal City.

Victor Emmanuel was holding grand levees at Naples, when the report of Garibaldi's threatening conduct first arrived. He left immediately for Turin on the 19th, although his stay was intended until the 25th. The agitation was at its height when the troops surrounded Garibaldi's house, and arrested his friends, the General himself escaping to Perzano, where he distributed arms freely to the populace, in defiance of the authorities, sending a telegraphic challenge to the Ministry. Prince Napoleon had no diplomatic mission to Naples, merely going to show his spouse Vesuvius and San Gennaro's miraculous phial.

America.

A Liverpool correspondent of the Times says that the Southern fleet had assembled on Mississippi, sufficient at Fort Wright 8000 miles up the river, when it should have been at New Orleans.

The Herald shows the grounds on which this event may be anticipated. If the Confederates are defeated at Corinth they must fall back towards New Orleans and Mobile; and the Federal General Butler, now holding New Orleans, would in such a case be overpowered with little trouble; so, were the Confederates to prove victorious, a force sufficiently large to take New Orleans can hardly fail to be at once employed. The possession of New Orleans is of the most vital political and commercial importance to the Southerns.

This valiant enthusiastic young Irishman, when rebellion threatened the Papal dominions in 1860, volunteered his life in the sacred cause of religion and nobly distinguished himself in Italy, where he remained in the service of the Holy Father until a short time since, when he left that country in company with a fellow-officer, Lieut. D. J. Kiely, for America. The latter gentleman is, we understand, a native of Waterford, and has been appointed

Artesian Well.

On Sunday at 11 1/2 o'clock we had the pleasure of going to Barracas, at the invitation of Messrs. Sourdeaux, Legout and Co. to inspect the Artesian Well.

A very large assemblage of about 1,000 people left from the mole and an agreeable passage by the picturesque curves of the Boca river brought the visitors to the saladero of Messrs. Cambaceres, distant three squares from the establishment.

The weather, which had been menacing that morning, improved about midday and a band of music enlivened the voyage.

The Governor, accompanied by the Ministers of Government and War, Commissary-General, and several other public officers and members of Congress, examined the Artesian Well. A table with wine and cakes very handsomely ornamented, was laid out in the tent for the guests.

Mr. Legout one of the proprietors drank a toast to the Governor, after a brief and very appropriate speech in which he gave thanks to the efficacious aid given him by the Government of Buenos Aires at the commencement of that enterprise which many at first thought impracticable. His closing remark, which elicited a great deal of applause, is worthy of mention, he said "General Mitre has shown that artillery can not only be loaded with balls and grape, but also with ideas."

General Mitre then pronounced a very eloquent speech, in which he noticed the important benefits which had been brought about by the French Engineers in the deserts of Algeria; he called to mind the memory of the great statesman Rivadavia whose enlightened judgment 40 years ago had attempted the same task; he hoped in future the Artesian works disseminated all over the country would show the pacific triumph of civilization crowned by the prospect of Argentine union, he concluded by proposing a toast to the health of Messrs. Sourdeaux and Legout whose perseverance he praised highly.

Dr. Costa Minister of Government followed, stating that Messrs. Sourdeaux and Legout instead of owing gratitude to the Government and people of Buenos Aires, deserved it them selves for realizing this great town, and recommended all estancieros to avail themselves of this benefit.

Next Dn. Heet r F. Varela, Editor of the Tribuna made a speech in which he alluded to the doubts which existed as to the success of their enterprize, and cited similar examples of long suffering by Columbus, Copernicus, Galileo, and other sages whom the world has since revered: he finally gave a sketch of the first few centuries of the Christian era and asserted that this, the nineteenth, was eminently an age of civilization, and congratulated the proprietors of the well on their successful experiment.

A general rush to the table ensued among the younger part of the guests, and many private toasts were proposed which we could not notice, while we proceeded to a more critical examination of the well.

For the information of those who were not present we may add that the bore is 25 yards deep and the water ascends some 10 or 12 feet, through the tube, above the surface. Messrs. Sordeaux and Legout had the politeness on our leaving to present us with a tube off the upper section of tube, showing us the jet of water which leaps spontaneously some 18 inches over the ground-level, in a volume of 6 inches diameter. The water is brackish, partaking strongly of magnesia. At the entrance was the appropriate inscription "Fuente de la Fé."

On the wall in front of the pit a glass case had been placed which showed to the public the successive samples of sand, gravel and fossil strata traversed by the tube.

The water itself once all beautifully clear from a tube about six inches in diameter in one incessant stream, received laterally by a tasteful grotto of stone and plants. Sometimes we could perceive that it flowed with greater force at a lateral opening and out from the top of the tube.

The water itself is slightly sulphurious and, impregnated with magnesia; in fact it is richly mineralized and we think very well adapted for baths.

Altogether the feast has been one of the best we have enjoyed for some time, there was only one drawback—there were no ladies; we came back in the famous Gondoyany, and took 3 1/2 hours from Barracas to the mole.

TRAVELS IN LA PLATA.

CHAP. XXI.

Earthquake and Hurricane.

A most awful storm fell on this city on All Saints' day, 1st Nov, 1851. The evening was fine and serene, and excited unusual attention on the part of the inhabitants, from the brilliancy of the sky, which was tinted with a variety of colours, all shining into each other until the most exquisite beauty; it was, however, but transient; for, on a sudden, the sky became overcast, a distant rumbling of thunder, accompanied with flashes of lightning announced the approach of a storm, which shortly commenced with a shower of hailstones, and gradually increased so as to occasion the most serious alarm. The hailstones were of the size of pullets' eggs, and some even larger, and such was the violence with which they fell, and the noise they created on the roofs of the houses, that fear was entertained for the safety of the inmates. It lasted for nearly a quarter of an hour, and was then followed by rain, which came down in a perfect deluge, and such as may be imagined to have fallen when Noah and his family entered the ark. The whole of the town was completely flooded. The storm continued for upwards of an hour, during which period my fair friends fell on their knees in prayer, and, as they thought, for the last time: they commenced their prayers with the ground floor, which was soon abandoned as the apartment became flooded; we then mounted the dining table, where they resumed their orations, with increased fervour, they invoked the protection of all the saints; but still the storm continued. Amidst this affray in our anxiety was increased by a violent movement of the earth, similar to the heaving of a vessel at sea; and the terrific cry of "terrible! terrible!" which assailed our ears from every quarter. But even then our troubles had not ceased; for, from the height of the waters, which was rapidly increasing, we thought that the river had entered the town. The previous shocks of the alleged earthquakes, the solemn tolling of the church bells, the shock of the earthquake, the repetition we feared, and the general confusion, answered our hopes of safety, and left us to watch the result of the storm.

The destruction was at hand. Under these afflicting and frightful emotions, and fatigued with the continuance of a kneeling position, I sat down upon the table, and, fixing my eyes on my fellow-sufferers, who, with tears, implored the aid of the saints, resigned myself to my fate.

All the evils of life terminate, and so did this storm, but, still, we retained our position upon the table, for more than an hour after its conclusion, to allow the water to recede from the apartment, so that we might be enabled to descend. Approaching the windows we beheld the moon in all her splendour—not a cloud was to be seen in the horizon; the air was fresh and cool; torrents of rain, overspread with hailstones, flowed down the streets, presenting, in some, a vast sheet of snow, and carrying in its course wagons and articles of various descriptions.

As soon as the pause had somewhat subsided, the inhabitants were employed in drying and arranging their furniture which was considerably deteriorated, from the entrance of the water, and the flooding of the apartments.

The effects of this storm were visible displayed, on the following morning, in all parts of the camp which were strewn with dead birds, and with long and deep fissures produced by the hailsons & the Earthquake. Several small houses and walls, in the suburbs of the town, were thrown down by its violence.

Notwithstanding the thermometer of Fahrenheit ranges between 75 and 80 degrees, at this season of the year, hailstones were obtained from the shady parts of the town, and employed in the making of ices, for several days, after the storm, the most awful I have witnessed, or ever had been witnessed by the oldest inhabitant.

The British Hospital.

Many communications have come to us from responsible parties, respecting the management of this institution.

Although we dislike giving publicity to frivolous complaints, etc, still it is our bounden duty, when a proper cause or grievance arises, to the wrpon our columns to be in parted.

We are requested to say that contracts are made, and work given, by the hospital committee, to Italians, Frenchmen and natives, to the exclusion of all English, Irish or Scotch.

The hospital has been built by Italians, and the very sand was carted from the beach by Basque, although offered to be carried at a less price, by an Englishman who had subscribed his mite towards the building fund.

The hospital is now supplied with a kitchen stove. We are desired to say that, for the benefit of the public and the satisfaction of those subscribers who give on, over to their fellow countrymen in foundries, etc, the hospital committee is requested to state where they contract for their stoves.

We are glad that there is little foundation for these complaints, and that the committee can give a sound reason why parties who have already subscribed to this institution, have been made stand aside, to make room for Italian mechanics and Basque cutters.

Important to Sheep Farmers.

A sure cure for the Scab in Sheep.

The undersigned has the pleasure of announcing to the Wool Growers of this country, that he has now received a large quantity of the celebrated South Down Sheep Wash.

This valuable preparation is highly recommended for its safety, convenience, utility and economy. It is a concentrated extract, one pound of which is equal to ten pounds of tobacco, retaining in this compact form all the properties of the raw material, at the same time saving the very disagreeable and tedious operation of preparing the wash as is usually practised in this country. The only labor required with the article now offered to the public, is to stir the paste into the quantity of water needed for the sheep that are intended to be dipped. This Sheep Wash is highly recommended and extensively used by the wool Growers of Australia and South Africa. The Samples that have been used by some of the Estancieros of this Country, have given the most entire satisfaction, and are recommended by them as the most efficacious remedy ever used in this country; for further particulars please call or address by letter to

Notice Extraordinary,

OPENING OF THE GREAT

EMPORIUM OF LIGHT

OF THE LA PLATA

At No. 59 CALLE FLORIDA.

The undersigned would respectfully announce to the inhabitants of Buenos Aires and the Argentine Republic, that having completed his arrangements, he has opened the above named establishment to the public on the 23rd May, with the immense supply of the celebrated KEROSENE, SEA, and a stock of KEROSENE LAMPS, imported from Europe and North America expressly this market, which for in every respect, is assur ed in the Globe, all of which will be offered for sale at the most reasonable prices. He would moreover invite the attention of the public to the many advantages of the above fashionable illuminant over the light giving agents. Kerosene Oil being a pure extract from bituminous coal, contains all the illuminating properties of coal gas, and produces a clear, white light, surpassing Gas light itself in brilliance and of such remarkable softness and purity as to render it infinitely the best light in the world for the eye, while it costs less than one half as much as gas and a much more economical than the most inferior light in use. The Oil is very cheap, inodorous, and perfectly safe and the lamps are so simple that they can not be got out of order. The unprecedented superiority of Kerosene Oil over all other artificial illuminants, having been well established throughout Europe and North America (where it has met an adoption unparalled in the history of improvements), it is now confidently offered to the public as the most perfect and in every respect most desirable illuminant yet introduced. All are invited to call and see the light and judge for themselves; the evening being the best time, to see the establishment.

TUESDAY July 1st, 1862

FALL OF NEW ORLEANS AND YORKTOWN
FRENCH VICTORY IN MEXICO
DEFIANCE BETWEEN THE ALLIES.

Garibaldi at war with Victor Emmanuel.

The American war is drawing to a close. On the 25th April, the Federal squadron having bombarded, during six days, the forts near New Orleans a banner of truce demanded the conditions of capitulation, to which Commander Porter replied "unconditionally"! General Butler accordingly landed 8,000 men, on the 27th, and the forts surrendered. At the same time Commander Farragut forced a passage up the Mississippi, and arrived abreast of the city. The Confederate general, Lowell, seeing resistance impossible, evacuated the city with all his troops, setting fire, however, to 8 or 10 millions dollars' worth of cotton. The admiral also pulled down the southern flag. The city-mayor, resembling the town-council, declared that New Orleans would not surrender, but that, wanting means of defence, the Federals might take possession. The Northern troops then entered, while the whole line of the Mississippi as far as Baton Rouge also fell into their hands. Postal communication is re-established with Louisiana, the river is thrown open to commerce, the farmers of Tennessee no longer refuse their cotton, and everything augurs a speedy pacification.

The fall of Yorktown has given great prestige to McClellan's operations. A vigorous defence was anticipated, and great preparations were made for the attack. On May 1st, the Confederate President, Jeff. Davis, called a council of war with Gens. Lee and Johnston, deciding on the evacuation of the place as untenable. On the 3rd, McClellan took possession, finding 60 pieces of heavy artillery. The Confederates had left some infernal machines in the abandoned works, and magazines; one exploded, killing and wounding thirty men. General MacClellan ordered the prisoners to remove them at the risk of peril. The Confederates retired towards Williamsburg, and the next morning discovered their rearguard at a distance of 4 miles. Mc Clellan immediately ordered Hooker and a most bloody conflict ensued on the possession of two redoubts. Gen. Hancock repulsed the enemy at point of the bayonet: the fight became general and the rebels had to retire, leaving their dead and wounded on the field. On the 6th May the Northern occupied Williamsburg; and Gen. Franklin seized West-point (20 miles from Yorktown) cutting off the retreat of the the Confederates.

It is not known whether Beauregard has evacuated Corinth, the Confederate force is very large, but the spirits of the men are depicted by these successive reverses, and they are surrounded by four armies under McClellan, Halleck, Mitchel and Foote.

The North is developing the scheme for negro emancipation, on the ought not Forces, S. Carolina, Georgia &c. The French Minister has returned to Washington with preliminaries for an armistice and peaceful arrangement. Lord Lyons is also exchanged by the British Government to endeavour to effect a compromise.

From Mexico we have accounts of a pitched battle between the French troops and Juarez' brigands. The first charge sent the Mexican cavalry fleeing in all directions and the conquerors entered Orizaba in triumph proclaiming to the inhabitants that they would respect their properties, although fairly entitled to plunder. General Almonte called his countrymen to side with the French and 6,000 Mexicans had already flocked to his standard. Civil war raged through the interior; the French were resolved to carry everything before them, and reap all the glory, since England and Spain have both retired. The Parliament has confirmed the acts of their representative; General Prim convened his troops to Cuba, some port on board British men o war, and the Cortes have sanctioned his retirement. The French Chambers and press declaim against the allies as deserters, and M. Barrot was sent to the Court of San Ildefonso to insist on the Spanish co operation. The Spanish journals reply that Spain will listen to no dictation.

The trip of V. Emmanuel to Naples gave occasion for Garibaldi to set on foot a new crusade which threatened the duration of the "gentlemanlike" war; it was probably intended to attack Venice or Rome. The existence of revolt were stifled just in time, and Garibaldi claims all responsibility; Colonel Cahhene and some al others were arrested at Brescia and Bergamo. The hero of Sicily declares that the Government is unworthy of national confidence, and he is laying deep plans of armed ensurrection.

The Pope held a consistory of 25 cardinals and 120 bishops, relative to the Japanese martyrs. An arrangement is said to be concluded between Turin and the Tuileries, giving a number of representatives to the Papal Chamber in Italian Parliament, which is not to sit in Rome. Gen Goyon has received from his Holiness the grand cross of the order of Christ, an honour reserved to crowned heads. The Viceroy of Egypt proceeded from Rome to Paris, where he was received with every mark of distinction. Twenty Spanish cardinals and prelates arrived at Civita Vecchia for Barcelona. Two thirds of the French internally have also gone to the Eternal City.

Victor Emmanuel was holding grand levees at Naples, when the report of Garibaldi's threatening conduct first arose; on which he left for Turin on the 19th, although his stay was intended until the 25th. The agitation was at its height when the troops surrounded Garibaldi's house, and arrested his friends, the General himself escaping to Persano, where he distributed arms freely to the populace, in defiance of the authorities, sending a telegraphic challenge to the Ministry. Prince Napoleon had no diplomatic mission to Naples, merely going to show his spouse Vesuvius and San Gennaro's miraculous phial.

THE WAR IN AMERICA AND THE COTTON SUPPLY.

The Manchester market-reports state that the opinion is gaining ground that the last ship of the season has arrived, and that an increased supply of cotton may be looked upon as certain, but as to the quantity likely to come forward no one is in a position to form the slightest idea; and the uncertainty of this point is a second fruitful cause among the buyers and sellers.

America.

A Liverpool correspondent of the Times says that the Southern fleet had ascended the Mississippi, and lies at Fort Wright 8000 miles up the river, when it should have been at New Orleans.

The Herald shows the grounds on which this event may be anticipated. If the Confederates are defeated at Corinth they must fall back towards New Orleans and Mobile; and the Federal General Butler, now holding New Orleans, would in such a case be overpowered with little trouble; so, were the Confederates to prove victorious, a force sufficiently large to take New Orleans can hardly fail to be at once employed. The possession of New Orleans is of the most vital political and commercial importance to the Southerns.

IRISHMEN IN THE FEDERAL ARMY.—Our young friend and fellow-countryman, Myles W. Keogh, late lieutenant in St. Patrick's Battalion, has received a commission as captain on the staff of Mayor-General J. C. Fremont, and is appointed personal aide-de-camp to General Shields, an Irishman in the Federal army. This valiant enthusiastic young Irishman, when rebellion threatened the Papal dominions in 1860, volunteered his life in the sacred cause of religion and nobly distinguished himself in Italy, where he remained in the service of the Holy Father until a short time since, when he left that country in company with a fellow-officer, Lieut. D. J. Kiely, for America. The latter gentleman is, we understand, a native of Waterford, and has been appointed to the same post in the Federal army es Captain Keogh.—Carlow Post.

Artesian Well.

On Sunday at 11 1/2 o'clock we had the pleasure of going to Barracas, at the invitation of Messrs. Sourdeaux, Legout and Co. to inspect the Artesian Well.

A very large assemblage of about 1,000 people left from the mole and an agreeable passage by the picturesque curves of the Boca river brought the visitors to the saladero of Messrs. Cambaceres, distant three squares from the establishment.

The weather, which had been menacing that morning, improved about midday and a band of music enlivened the voyage.

The Governor, accompanied by the Ministers of Government and War, Commissary-General, and several other public officers and members of Congress, examined the Artesian Well. A table with wine and cakes very handsomely ornamented, was laid out in the tent for the guests.

Mr. Legout one of the proprietors drank a toast to the Governor, after a brief and very appropriate speech in which he gave thanks to the efficacious aid given him by the Government of Buenos Aires at the commencement of that enterprise which many at first thought impracticable. His closing remark, which elicited a great deal of applause, is worthy of mention, he said "General Mitre has shown that artillery can not only be loaded with balls and grape, but also with ideas."

General Mitre then pronounced a very eloquent speech, in which he noticed the important benefits which had been brought about by the French Engineers in the deserts of Algeria; he called to mind the memory of the great statesman Rivadavia whose enlightened judgment 40 years ago had attempted the same task; he hoped in future the Artesian works disseminated all over the country would show the pacific triumph of civilization crowned by the prospect of Argentine union, he concluded by proposing a toast to the health of Messrs. Sourdeaux and Legout whose perseverance he praised highly.

Dr. Costa Minister of Government followed, stating that Messrs. Sourdeaux and Legout instead of owing gratitude to the Government and people of Buenos Aires, deserved it them selves for realizing this great town, and recommended all estancieros to avail themselves of this benefit.

Next Dn. Heet r F. Varela, Editor of the Tribuna made a speech in which he alluded to the doubts which existed on the success of their enterprize, and cited similar examples of long suffering by Columbus, Copernicus, Galileo, and other sages whom the world has since revered: he finally gave a sketch of the first few centuries of the Christian era and asserted that this, the nineteenth, was eminently an age of civilization, and congratulated the proprietors of the well on their successful experiment.

A general rush to the table ensued among the younger part of the guests, and many private toasts were proposed which we could not notice, while we proceeded to a more critical examination of the well.

For the information of those who were not present we may add that the bore is 25 yards deep and the water ascends some 10 or 12 feet, through the tube, above the surface Messrs. Sordeaux and Legout had the politeness on our being introduced to them, to take off the upper section of tube, showing us the jet of water which leaps spontaneously some 18 inches over the ground-level, in a volume of 6 inches diameter. The water is brackish, partaking strongly of magnesia. At the entrance was the appropriate inscription "Fuente de la Fé."

On the wall in front of the pit a glass case had been placed which showed to the public the successive samples of sand, gravel and fossil strata traversed by the tube.

The water itself once sat beautifully clear from a tube about six inches in diameter in one incessant stream, received laterally by a tasteful grotto of stone and plants. Sometimes we could perceive that it flowed with greater force at a lateral opening and out from the top of the tube.

The water itself is slightly sulphurious and, impregnated with magnesia; in fact it is richly mineral and we think very well looked qualities.

Although for the fear has been one of a least we have enjoyed for some time, there was only one drawback—there were no ladies; we came back in the famous Gondoyany, and took 3 1/2 hours from Barracas to the mole.

TRAVELS IN LA PLATA.

CHAP. XXI.

Earthquake and Hurricane.

A most awful storm fell on this city on All Saints' day, 1st Nov, 1851. The evening was fine and serene, and excited unusual attention on the part of the inhabitants, from the brilliancy of the sky, which was tinted with a variety of colours, the like into each other until the most unpassable beauty; it was, however, but transient; for, on a sudden, the sky became overcast, a distant rumbling of thunder, accompanied with flashes of lightning announced the approach of a storm, which shortly commenced with a shower of hailstones, and gradually increased so as to occasion the most serious alarm. The hailstones were of the size of pullets' eggs, and some even larger, and such was the violence with which they fell, and the noise they created on the roofs of the houses, that fear was entertained for the safety of the inmates. It lasted for nearly a quarter of an hour, and was then followed by rain, which came down in a perfect deluge, and such as may be imagined to have fallen when Noah and his family entered the ark. The whole of the town was completely flooded. The storm continued for upwards of an hour, during which period my fair friends fell on their knees in prayer, and, as they thought, for the last time: they commenced their prayers standing on ground floor, which was soon abandoned as the apartment became flooded; we then mounted the dining table, where they resumed their orations, with increased fervour, they invoked the protection of all the saints; but still the storm continued. Amidst this affray in our anxiety was increased by a violent movement of the earth, similar to the heeling of a vessel at sea; and the terrible cry of "terrible! terrible!" which assailed our ears from every quarter. But even then our troubles had not ceased; for, from the height of the water, which was rapidly increasing, we thought that the river had entered the town. The previous shocks of the alleged earthquakes, the solemn tolling of the church bells, the shock of the earthquake, the repetition we feared, and the general confusion, answered our hopes of safety, and led us to conclude that our destruction was at hand. Under these afflicting and frightful emotions, and fatigued with the continuance of a kneeling position, I sat down upon the table, and, fixing my eyes on my fellow-sufferers, who, with tears, implored the aid of the saints, resigned myself to my fate.

All the evils of life terminate, and so did this storm, but, still, we retained our position upon the table, for more than an hour after its conclusion, to allow the water to recede from the apartment, so that we might be enabled to descend. Approaching the windows we beheld the moon in all her splendour—not a cloud was to be seen in the horizon; the air was fresh and cool; torrents of rain, overspread with hailstones, flowed down the streets, presenting, in waves, a vast sheet of snow, and carrying in its course waggons and articles of various descriptions.

As soon as the pause had somewhat subsided, the inhabitants were employed in drying and arranging their furniture which was considerably deteriorated, from the entrance of the water, and the flooding of the apartments.

The effects of this storm were visible displayed, on the following morning, in all parts of the camp which were strewn with dead birds, and with long and deep fissures produced by the hailsons and the Earthquake. Several small houses and walls, in the suburbs of the town, were thrown down by its violence.

Notwithstanding the thermometer of Fahrenheit ranges between 75 and 80 degrees, at this season of the year, hailstones were obtained from the shady parts of the town, and employed in the making of ices, for several days, after the storm, the most awful I have witnessed, or ever had been witnessed by the oldest inhabitant.

The British Hospital.

Many communications have come to us from responsible parties, respecting the present state of this institution.

Although we dislike giving publicity to frivolous complaints, etc, still it is our bounden duty, when a proper cause or grievance arises, to throw open our columns to both parties.

We are requested to say that contracts are made, and work given, by the hospital committee, to Italians, Frenchmen and natives, to the exclusion of all English, Irish or Scotch.

The hospital has been built by Italians, and the very sand was carried from the beach by Basques although offered to be carried at a less price, by an Englishman who had subscribed his mite towards the building fund.

The hospital is now supplied with a kitchen stove. We are desired to say that, for the benefit of the public and the satisfaction of those subscribers who give on, or collect their fellow countrymen in future dues, the hospital committee is requested to state where they contract for their stoves.

We are glad that there is little foundation for these complaints, and that the committee can show some fair reason why parties who have already assisted to this institution, have been made dead asbie, to make room for Italian mechanics and Basque carters.

LOCAL EVENTS.

Clubs.—The clubs have advertised for general meetings in the different churches

We wonder much that the bishop tolerates such a gross impropriety. It is not enough that we should have elections and their attendant rows, but now it seems these political clubs must be admitted.

We protest against this desecration, and hope it Mr Obligado will hold his club meeting either in the Colon or the adjoining cafe, rather than in the Cathedral or Merced church

New Collector.—We salute our new morning contemporary, "La Actualidad," and wish it every success

Congress.—The senators meet today at noon, to discuss the capital question. We expect a final decision at once, after which it passes to the Deputies and then to the Provincial Chambers

The arrival of the French packet Saintonge has brought no improvement to our hide market. Hides have declined a little in England and in Havre, although more activity prevailed in the sales; it was produced by the concession in price of holders, principally of Brazilian descriptions. Arrivals and stock in Havre were considerable on the 23d May, which is our latest advice.

From Brazil we have no better news for jerked beef, and an improvement was not expected to take place.

On Saturday 760 cow matadero hides, salted in bens, sold at 35 rls, at 69 bales Cordova wool at 33 rls.

To-day we know of no transaction, as the weather has been bad, and the news by the packet was but imperfectly known.

Our Montevideo corresp ondent informs us that the cargo of salt per Princesa Royal from Cadiz, sold at 12 rls, and 4 months, per famega on board, to deliver at Fray Bentos. The vessel is to load at that place for England (whence she had been previously chartered).

The advices from Europe respecting wool are rather favourable, and show an upward tendency and a firmness on the part of holders, which was unlooked for. The continental wool markets seem firmer and more active than the English.
